If this is all you know about OSU, you have a lot to learn.

The Ohio State University points with pride to our Buckeye traditions, and to having the nation's largest enrollment of any educational institution on one campus. But as a community of learning, OSU's academic reputation stretches far beyond the Buckeye State. In the classroom and in the research laboratory, Ohio State "Buckeyes" have earned national recognition.

Here are a few of the reasons for our nationwide reputation:

The 65 National Merit Scholars in this year's freshman class place OSU among the highest in the USA. The University also has four National Achievement Scholars and about 400 Freshman Scholars in the class of 1979

OSU's College of Optometry ranks first in academic excellence among the nation's optometry schools, according to a poll of deans conducted by "Change" magazine. Ranked third in the nation are the College of Pharmacy and the College of Education, while the College of Veterinary Medicine is fourth.

The College of Dentistry enrolled the largest entering class in the country, 200 in July 1975. The College of Veterinary Medicine has the largest enrollment in North America—510 veterinary students—and has graduated more veterinarians than any other school, 3,815 as of August 1975.

Our Institute of Polar Studies is the only one in the USA to study both the North and South Poles in a wide range of disciplines—botany, climatology, geophysics, and glaciology. It sent the world's first all-woman scientific team to Antarctica in 1969.

The Disaster Research Center is unique in the world—performing sociological research on the reactions of groups and organizations in community-wide emergencies, particularly natural disasters.

Thus, while OSU's Buckeye tree has its roots in Ohio, its branches cover the nation for these and many other reasons. If you are interested in more information on OSU today or on any of our graduate and undergraduate programs, contact: Office of Public Affairs, 190 North Oval Mall, The Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio 43210.

IN THE HUDDLE

By Steve Snapp

It's a good bet that Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes and his North Carolina counterpart, Bill Dooley, have cooked up a few surprises for one another this afternoon. Good coaches have a way of doing that just to keep the opposition on its toes.

But it's an even better bet that no matter what new twists the Buckeye offense comes up with today, Dooley and the Carolina staff won't be caught off guard by the presence of OSU senior Archie Griffin.

Dooley, in his ninth year at UNC, knows all about the sensational Griffin. He found out first hand three years ago (Sept. 30, 1972) when the Buckeyes and the Tar Heels met here in Ohio Stadium. Griffin, then a freshman, burst into the national limelight that day by rushing for 239 yards to establish an Ohio State single game record, surpassing the old mark of 229 that had stood since 1945.

Archie didn't even start the game. In fact, only a relatively few people had ever heard of the former Columbus Eastmoor star. But that didn't last long. With Ohio State trailing 7-0, and the offense sputtering, Archie was inserted into the lineup on the Buckeyes' third possession. The 5-9, 184-pound tailback soon brought his team and the crowd to life with his spectacular bursts up the middle and fancy open-field running that quickly vaulted the Buckeyes into the lead.

He literally tore the Carolina defense to shreds that brisk autumn day, and when he finally went to the sidelines with Ohio State holding a comfortable 29-7 lead, 86,180 Ohio Stadium fans and the entire Carolina bench rose to their feet in unison to pay tribute to a truly remarkable effort.

Griffin's performance had taken the Carolinians completely by surprise. They had come to Columbus looking for Ohio State's vaunted fullback attack, but were subjected instead to a tailback oriented offense that accounted for more than half of Ohio State's 526 total yards.

The final score was 29-14 in Ohio State's favor. It turned out to be the only loss of the year for the Tar Heels who went on to an 11-1 record, including a 32-28 Sun Bowl victory over Texas Tech.

After the game, Coach Dooley simply shook his head in amazement. He had never heard of Archie Griffin, but it was a name he would always remember.

Griffin was a little embarrassed by all the attention that he received following the game. Even then he asked that writers and other members of the media not overlook the fine job of blocking that his offensive line had turned in.

Three years have passed since that spectacular debut and Archie has gone on to eclipse his own single game rushing record—and just about every other Ohio State and Big Ten record imaginable. Winner of the Heisman Trophy as a junior, he has rushed for 4,375 yards during his career and currently has a streak of 23 consecutive regular season games in which he has rushed for 100 or more yards. The latter will no doubt go down as one of the most memorable accomplishments in sports history. Certainly it must rank with Joe Dimaggio's 56-game hitting streak and the 88 consecutive basketball wins compiled by UCLA.

It is a streak that is all the more amazing because it has defied injury, although Archie often plays in severe discomfort, and has withstood the test of some of the nation's finest college defenses. Every Buckeye opponent has the name Griffin splashed all over the locker room bulletin board and every defense vows to snap the string. So far, no one has been able to do so.

Despite his immense publicity, Archie remains unchanged. At last year's Heisman Trophy Dinner, he made it a point to give the rest of the team credit for his success. It was not simply idle chatter, he meant it. And when he says he would gladly trade all his records and all his honors for a national championship, he means that too.

You can bet Archie is after that one goal every time he takes the field. That's why game after game he plays with spectacular consistency. And while he won't be a surprise to Coach Dooley and the Tar Heels this afternoon, he won't be any easier to stop.

BACK OF THE WEEK

PETE JOHNSON—FULLBACK—Big Pete gets the nod for the second straight week, thanks to a 112-yard showing against Penn State that included two touchdowns. Pete now has four TD's this year to lead the team in scoring and is the second leading rusher with 181 yards.

BUCK OF THE WEEK

AARON BROWN—MIDDLE GUARD—Credited with 11 tackles against Penn State, including two sacks for a minus 15 yards. His tackle of quarterback John Andress midway through the fourth quarter was the turning point of the game according to Coach Hayes. Brown is the Buckeyes' second leading tackler after two games with 22.

NORTH CAROLINA PLAYERS TO WATCH

MARK CANTRELL—OFFENSIVE CENTER—One of three returning regulars on the Tar Heels' offensive unit. A 6-3, 234-pound junior who was acknowledged as the best center in the Atlantic Coast Conference last year and is being billed for All-America honors this season. Carolina coaches feel he has not played a single bad game for the Tar Heels since he became a starter at the beginning of last year.

ROD BROADWAY—DEFENSIVE TACKLE—Considered one of the top defensive players in the ACC. Started every game as a sophomore last year and was the mainstay of the UNC defensive line. Stands 6-3 and weighs 250 but possesses exceptional quickness and is an outstanding pass rusher. Began working his way into the Carolina line-up as a freshman and has been improving steadily ever since.

Archie, from Freshman to Heisman

by KAYE KESSLER, Citizen-Journal

A dozen little tads ages about 10—black, white and in between with taped-together sneakers—stood behind the central casting figure looking into the cameras as television crews ground out picture after picture during Ohio State University's preseason football practice.

All of the mini-stars had some form of patched football under their arms and a tattered T-shirt or jersey with No. 45 on their backs. While the cameras whirled away focused on their idol, that central casting figure, the diminutive hero-worshippers mimicked every fake, cut, stiff-arm and head move of Archie Griffin.

They all were ready, willing and unable to handle the immortality for which Archie Mason Griffin, senior Ohio State tailback, seems so perfectly fitted, if unwilling to accept.

These doting little devils with nothing but Archie in their eyes also happen to represent the only real pressure Griffin feels as he enters his fourth and final varsity year with the Buckeyes carrying the great expectations of the entire collegiate football world on his bullish little shoulders.

The youngsters are the motivating force that could make Griffin exceed himself, if that's possible.

No Pressure

Quite simply and honestly, this 5-9, 185-pound dynamo who has destroyed a gaggle of record books does not feel the pressure of the possibility of:

- Being the first repeat Heisman Trophy winner in its 40 years;
- Becoming the first three-time winner of the Big Ten's MVP award;
- Becoming only the third three-time all-America in OSU history.

This Amateur Athlete of the Year for 1974 who will co-captain the Buckeyes this fall for the second time also:

- Has an NCAA record 23 straight games rushing for 100 or more yards (the NCAA does not count bowl appearances, thus thrown out is Archie's 75 yards before injury shelved him in last January's 18-17 Rose Bowl loss to Southern California).

- Holds the OSU single-game rushing record (246 yards in 30 carries against Iowa as a sophomore), single season (1,695 yards in 256 carries for 12 games last year) and OSU career rushing record (4,139 yards in three seasons);
- Holds Big Ten all-game career rushing record of 4,375 yards, and career conference games record of 2,916.

All this is not as insufferable to Archie Griffin, as overwhelming, as it might appear after he survived a summer of incessant hounding by newspaper, magazine and television writers.

Emphatically does Archie deny the outside pressures of his coaches, his peers, his followers.

Self-Motivation

But let the bandy-legged ground-gaining genius tell it like he feels it:

"If there is any pressure at all on me, it's put there by Archie Griffin and nobody else," he began sincerely.

"Sure, the Heisman Trophy was a wonderful award and I'd like to win it again, but I don't think about it. I never think about professional ball, though I hope to play, because I know it messed up the minds and play of some of our fellows last year.

"Being one of the first fellows ever to play in four straight Rose Bowls is something, too, but it's not the end, it's the means to an end.

"This might sound strange, and I'm sure people will be skeptical, but all I'm thinking about is winning the national championship as a team. You know, we've never won that yet in my three years.

"I feel pressures, you bet; and those pressures come from only the kids. I love kids . . . I really do."

And the warm, affectionate grin, that is as much of Archie Griffin as his incredible cuts or fierce shoulder shrugs that shed linebackers, bursts through when he talks of kids.

"You know why I feel pressure from the kids?" he asks. "Because I know some of them, anyway, are watching me; watching everything I do. They'll say, 'I did this because Archie did it.' And if I do something a little bit wrong and a kid does, too, I couldn't live with myself. I'd like to set a good example for kids because I guess I like nothing better than to be around them."

Archie went to summer school "so I can graduate in industrial relations winter quarter." He once wanted to be a social worker, but now he's thinking about law school after pro football.

The phone never quits in the mod apartment Archie shares with quarterback Cornelius Greene; but it really doesn't bug Archie and neither do the countless speeches he makes to church-oriented groups or for the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) which is as much a part of his life as running with a football, studying or his full-time girl friend of two years, Loretta.

"Leg Work"

How did Archie Griffin prepare himself for his final season and the pressure of setting the example for the youngsters with whom he's formed a mutual admiration society?

"My only concern was to get into the best possible shape for this fall," he replied quickly. "I wrestled a lot when I was in high school and developed pretty good shoulders (ask any would-be tackler), but I've really got skinny little legs. I want to build them up."

So Archie runs a lot with Greene and his kid brothers, sophomore Raymond who was too valuable to play tailback in Archie's shadow and will start at defensive safety and freshman Duncan, a defensive cornerback candidate. He also works faithfully with the Nautalis weight machine and rides the bicycle he uses to go to classes.

Did he have a secret for getting into shape quickly for the fall?

"Not really, it's just that I guess I've never been out of shape. I think that's important—just never get out of shape."

And OSU's man for all reasons and seasons has one other principle, "Never let the kids down."

Pressure on Archie Griffin? Phooey. But he'll heap a ton of it on other people just being Archie Griffin!

An important message for Ohio State football fans who enjoy good food
in pleasant surroundings and who appreciate good value.

Present this advertisement (no need to tear it out of the program) at our Bevis Hall/West Campus location (see map) before or after any 1975 OSU home game. Buy one of our delicious Whopper, Yumbo or Whaler sandwiches; an order of piping hot fries or onion rings, and a beverage; and get a second Whopper, Yumbo or Whaler free (show us your football ticket or stub and we'll add a chilled fresh apple or pear, also free). Coupon may be redeemed only at Bevis Hall and is good on game days only.

You will enjoy these delicacies in the splendor of the first Burger King restaurant ever to be placed within a college building. It is carpeted, panelled, softly lit, and hung with reproductions of old masters and the French impressionists. The good music of the '70s fills the air around you. And, as if that weren't enough, our massive glass windows afford significant views of the stadium, the main campus, and the emerging downtown skyline.

Truly this is a place to visit.

Current NCAA legislation limits member institutions to no more than 30 football recruits in a given year. Some college coaches consider that restriction too severe, but not Woody Hayes.

Since Hayes began coaching at Ohio State in 1951, the Buckeyes have rarely ever taken the allowable maximum. The last time it happened was in 1967 when Rex Kern, John Brockington, Jack Tatum and Jim Stillwagon, just to name a few, made up the nucleus of what may have been the best freshman class ever at Ohio State.

But not giving out thirty grants-in-aids every year hasn't hurt the Buckeye cause. Twenty-two of Hayes' 24 OSU teams have produced winning records and the last three have made Rose Bowl appearances.

"We are after quality not quantity when we recruit," explains Hayes. "We don't go after numbers, we try to get players who will fit into our system and be able to make a contribution to our team."

The 1975 frosh class looks like it can do just that. Twenty-four in number, the current crop of yearlings is big, strong and aggressive. That was obvious from the first day of fall practice. And after the youngsters had had an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the OSU system, their talent was equally apparent.

"They're a good group okay and I am sure a number of them will help us this year," said Hayes, who does not hesitate to play freshmen once he deems them ready for the rigors of college football.

Twenty of the newcomers are linemen and linebackers. Graduation depleted the Buckeyes in those two areas last year, so the coaching staff spent the winter and spring looking for players to fill the gap.

The search paid off handsomely. Eight of the new group were first-team prep All-Americans. Nine others were first team all-state picks. Their list of honors staggers the imagination.

"NEARLY A CENTURY OF SERVICE" Company

Pfeifer Printing means more than just quality printing. We offer complete art and layout services, typesetting, photographic skills, and, of course, fine printing in black and white and color.

What does this mean to our customers? It means one stop service, no running to an agency for art work, to a studio for pictures, to a typesetter for a couple lines of type. This saves time, which in turn saves money.

As Columbus' oldest commercial printing company, we know our business. Feel free to call one of our competent representatives for advice on your next printing job.

College Football's Trivia Trove

There can't be much argument with the premise that football has produced a bountiful cornucopia for trivialists. Oh sure, there may be some grounds for tabbing baseball as the premier source of sports trivia; and of course movies, music, comics, radio and television rank high with trivia-nostalgia buffs.

But football is a staple item, make no mistake. It's a sport that produces memorable intricacies, unlikely heroics, noteworthy perimeter tangencies, and (perhaps most important) names that fasten to the memory process.

Who can ignore the ring of such names as Bronko Nagurski, Marchmont Schwartz, Viscount Francis, Aramis Dandoy, Pudge Heffelfinger, Buckets Goldenberg, Mad Dog O'Billovich, Atherton Phleger, Beattie Feathers, Father Lumpkin, Clayton Tonnemaker, Swinton Aldrich, Endicott Peabody (he should have been a quarterback instead of a guard) Wylie Fox?

What imagery in Crazylegs, Hopalong, Too Tall, Choo-Choo, Squirmin' Herman, Anvil Andy, Antelope Al, Slingin' Sam and Mad Stork!

Hirsch

Bryant

So now it's on to a football trivia quiz that's heavy on names. And there will be no apologies offered over occasional reference to players and coaches who date back as far as the 1920's. After all, that was the famed "Golden Era of Sport."

1. Super-colorful nicknames among college coaches seem to be out of favor these days, although Alabama's Bear Bryant is a notable exception. That wasn't the case for some earlier day coaches, however. Who were: (a) Snorter (b) Peahead (c) Hunk (d) Potsy (e) Greasy (f) Ears?

2. As for colorful nicknames of college athletic teams, how many of the following can you match up?:

- | | |
|---------------------|------------------|
| (a) Polar Bears | (1) No. Tex. St. |
| (b) Blue Bears | (2) Union |
| (c) Dutchmen | (3) Tufts |
| (d) Tomcats | (4) Bowdoin |
| (e) Mean Green | (5) West. Md. |
| (f) Jumbos | (6) Livingstone |
| (g) Thundering Herd | (7) Thiel |
| (h) Green Terrors | (8) Marshall |

3. At least ten actors, including the likes of Robert Taylor, Paul Newman and Roy Rogers, have played the role of Billy the Kid in variously-titled films about the outlaw. What ex-college football star was one of the earliest of the Billys, in the 1930 movie version?

4. In the context of college football, here's the dateline: Durham, N. C., January 1, 1942. What's the event?

5. Pop Warner gained fame coaching football at such places as Cornell, Carlisle, Pittsburgh and Stanford. He left Stanford after the 1932 season. Where did he coach starting in 1933?

6. Name the only two athletes who have had the distinction of playing in both a Rose Bowl football game and a baseball World Series.

7. Who's the only man to have coached a Rose Bowl team and played in a World Series?

8. Leroy Zimmerman was a fine back for San Jose State and for several pro teams. But he played another sport for 34 years and is listed in that sport's hall of fame. Which sport?

9. A member of the college and pro football halls of fame served up two home run pitches to Babe Ruth in 1927 when the Bambino hit 60 round-trippers. Who was he?

10. Who was the Washington State University lineman who fought for the world heavyweight boxing title in his first pro bout?

11. What college players were known as: (a) Little Boy Blue (b) The Wheaton Iceman (c) The Noblest Trojan of them All (d) The Beast (e) Flatfoot Frankie, the Georgia Fireball (f) The Baby-Faced Assassin?

12. Nationally known coaches of some years back were Gus Dorais and (Gloomy) Gus Henderson. What were their real first names?

13. Identify, by giving their real first and last names, the following sports figures: (a) "Tug"—an Illinois athlete who had a long career as an athletic director and conference official (b) "Zug"—a Navy quarterback who engineered a memorable upset win over Army in 1950 (c) "Pug"—a great tailback on Minnesota powerhouses of the early 1930's (d) "Jug"—a Wisconsin backfield star who also performed in the NFL (e) "Chug"—a fine all-around back at Gonzaga who later was a pro teammate of Sammy Baugh at Washington.

14. Aside from the fact that all were well known college players, what did these men have in common?: Norman Strader of St. Mary's, Howard Hickey of Arkansas, James Phillips of Auburn, Elmer Sleight of Purdue and Christian Cagle of Army.

15. Ten T-formation quarterbacks have won the Heisman Trophy. Who was the only lefthander among them?

Dawkins

16. From this list, pick out the players who did not win the Heisman Trophy: Leon Hart, O. J. Simpson, Vic Janowicz, Jim Brown, Fran Tarkenton, Steve Spurrier, Mike Garrett, Pete Dawkins, Doak Walker.

- * * *
16. Brown and Tarkenton.
1962.
15. Terry Baker, Oregon State.
14. All were nicknamed "Red."
Earl Givard (e) Ed Justice.
13. (a) Kenneth Wilson (b) Robert Zastrow (c) Francis Lund (d) Earl Givard (e) Ed Justice.
12. Charles Dorais; Elmer Henderson.
11. (a) Albie Booth, Yale (b) Red Grange, Illinois (c) Morley Drury, Southern California (d) E. J. Holub, Texas Tech (e) Frank Sinkwich, Georgia (f) Bill Corbus, Stanford or Endicott (Chub) Peabody, Harvard.
10. Pete Rademacher, who was kayoed by Floyd Patterson in 1957.
9. Ernie Nevers (Stanford) pitcher.
8. Softball. He was an outstanding pitcher.
7. Earle (Greasy) Neale played with Cincinnati in the 1919 World Series and coached Washington and Jefferson to a 0-0 tie with California in the 1922 Rose Bowl.
6. Jackie Jensen (California, Yankees). Chuck Essegian (Stanford, Dodgers).
5. Temple.
4. The "transplanted Rose Bowl game" in which Oregon State beat Duke, 20-16. It was the only time the game was not played at Pasadena, because of West Coast wartime jitter over the gathering of such a crowd.
3. Johnny Mack Brown of Alabama.
2. a-4; b-6; c-2; d-7; e-1; f-3; g-8; h-5.
1. (a) Dewey Luster, Oklahoma State (b) Douglas Walker, Wake Forest (c) Heartley Anderson, Notre Dame (d) George Clark, Nebraska and others (e) Earle Neale, Yale and others (f) J. B. Whitworth, Alabama.

OSU FOOTBALL COACHES

"Whenever you lose a good assistant coach, you must replace him with an assistant who is just as good," WOODY HAYES

Coach Woody Hayes has exercised the above philosophy throughout his coaching career. He believes that the nine assistants who now make up the Buckeye coaching staff are among the finest in college football and one of the chief reasons that Ohio State has enjoyed such success over the years.

Let's meet them:

RALPH STAUB coaches the offensive ends and tackles and is the recruiting coordinator for the Buckeyes. A 1952 graduate of Cincinnati, Ralph joined the OSU staff in 1970.

GEORGE CHAUMP works with the quarterbacks and wide receivers. He has one of the keenest football minds on the staff and has been an offensive innovator since joining the staff in 1968.

MICKEY JACKSON is in his second year with the Buckeyes. A 1968 graduate of Marshall, he joined the OSU ranks last year as offensive back-field coach.

ALEX GIBBS is the newest member of the Ohio State staff, having joined the Buckeyes last March as offensive guard and center coach. Alex, a graduate of Davidson College, was an assistant at West Virginia before coming to OSU.

GEORGE HILL has been defensive coordinator at Ohio State since he joined the Buckeye staff in 1971. In addition to overseeing the defense, Hill also coaches the linebackers. Under Hill, the OSU defense has become one of the best in the country.

ESCO SARKKINEN is the veteran of the Ohio State staff. The Buckeyes' defensive end coach, Sark joined the Buckeyes in 1946 as end coach for Paul Bixler. Sark is a 1939 OSU grad, earning All-American football honors as a senior.

RICHARD WALKER coaches the defensive back-field for the Buckeyes. He has been at Ohio State since 1969 and is responsible for recruiting in the Cleveland area.

CHUCK CLAUSEN joined the OSU staff in 1971 as defensive tackle coach. A graduate of New Mexico, he is responsible for recruiting along the eastern seaboard.

JOHN MUMMEY serves as varsity reserve and weight coach for the Buckeyes. He joined the staff in 1969 as freshman coach after a two year stay as head coach at Painesville Harvey High.

An agricultural “earful” from Ohio State

Ohio State University is in its second century as a major catalyst to Ohio's agricultural progress.

Founded as the Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical College, the university has continued its original educational thrust through the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, the Ohio Cooperative Extension Service and the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

The College of Agriculture begins this autumn with what is expected to be the nation's largest single-campus agricultural enrollment — 3,164. Since 1970, the college also has sponsored the Agricultural Technical Institute at Wooster, offering associate degrees.

Agricultural scientists at the university and at the research center are in the forefront in developing new methods for energy conservation, protecting our natural resources and increasing food and fiber production.

Their efforts also mean improved family living through better nutrition, clothing, construction, buying and home management.

These developments are passed on to the college classroom, the state's huge agribusiness and interested Ohioans through a network of 530 Extension agents and specialists.

Ohio State plays a prominent role in the state's biggest business. Agribusiness — farming, manufacturing, distributing, processing, servicing, financing and transporting products of the field and forest — means jobs for 750,000 Ohioans. It generates $20 billion a year.

Ohio ranks only 35th among the states in area, 11th in cropland harvested and 13th in cash receipts from the sale of farm products. Two-thirds of the state's 26 million acres are in farmland — half in crops.

Clearly, a healthy agriculture means a healthy economy in Ohio. It is a livelihood for nearly one-fifth of our people and provides food, fiber and beauty for all.

Rural Ohioans Bale hay in autumn.

Chevette.

Chevrolet's new kind of American car.

- Chevette is international in concept, design and heritage. It incorporates many engineering features proved around the world.
- Its wheelbase is 94.3 inches. And overall length is 158.7 inches.
- Its turning circle, compared with that of any foreign or domestic car, is among the smallest.
- It gives you more head room and front leg room than some leading foreign cars.
- It can carry cargo up to four feet wide.
- It's basically a metric car. And, as you know, the metric system is on its way to becoming the standard American measurement.
- It has a standard 1.4-litre engine, with a 1.6-litre engine available (except on the Scooter).
- It comes with a self-service booklet.
- It's a two-door hatchback, with seating for four in the standard Chevette, Rally, Sport and Woody versions. A two-passenger version, the Scooter, is also available.
- It is sold and serviced by every Chevrolet dealer in America—all 6,030 of them.

Boom Boom Betterson on the Move

The last time James (Boom Boom) Betterson played against a team from the state of Ohio, he had his greatest day on the football field.

In North Carolina's 1974 season opener against Ohio University, Betterson ripped the Bobcat defense for 134 yards rushing and three touchdowns. He also returned two kickoffs for 92 additional yards. His performance that day earned him National Back of the Week honors from Sports Illustrated.

But Betterson is expecting things to be quite a bit tougher here today when the Tar Heels face the Buckeyes in Ohio Stadium.

"This is a tremendous challenge for our team," says the senior tailback from High Point, N.C. "Ohio State has one of the best teams in America and we have one of the youngest. I know we're heavy underdogs, but it's going to be interesting to see how we handle the pressure of playing against a great team like Ohio State."

Much of the responsibility for handling that pressure will rest on the shoulders of Betterson. He's one of the few seniors on the Tar Heel squad and is being counted on for leadership throughout the 1975 season.

Leading is nothing new to Betterson, however. Boom Boom has always been a leader on the playing field. It was his great play that helped carry Carolina to a 7-4 record last season and a spot in the Sun Bowl.

Boom Boom gained 1,082 yards last year, averaging 5.2 yards per carry. He ranked eighth nationally in all-purpose running and fifth in kickoff returns with a 28.4 average.

He accomplished all that while alternating at tailback with Mike Voight in the UNC backfield. Voight, of course, also went over the 1,000 mark in rushing yards — the first time two players, alternating at the same position, had ever done that in football history.

Despite the fact he doesn't get as much playing time as some of the other great backs in America, Betterson likes the alternating system.

"It keeps me fresh," he says. "If Mike or I were in on every offensive play, we'd be exhausted by the fourth period. Our offensive system relies so much on the tailback that it would be impossible for one player to go the entire game. Alternating also allows me to watch the opposing defense from the sideline and get a different perspective on what our opponents are doing on particular plays."

Betterson is as well known across the nation for his nickname, Boom Boom, as he is for his running ability. Ricky Packard, a Carolina assistant coach at the time, gave James that tag during his freshman year. It caught on like wildfire.

"I've gotten accustomed to the nickname," says Betterson, "and I guess I kinda like it. But, it's really not a big deal and I don't want to make a lot of it. It's strange, but back home in High Point, no one calls me Boom Boom. People either use my middle name, Tommy, or just call me James. But everywhere else, I'm Boom or Boom Boom or Boomer."

Betterson is a very uncomplicated young man who is enjoying his college life like all other Carolina students. He is majoring in recreation and is interested in coaching.

"I'm very much into music," he says. "I like all kinds — soul, rock and roll, everything. I also enjoy going to the movies. I must admit I'm not much of a reader. But when I do start a book that interests me, I'll usually read the whole thing in one sitting."

Boom Boom is also a keen follower of all sports, especially Carolina's other varsity teams. He says his only sports hero is Gale Sayers, the former Chicago Bear running back.

"I'm not the same type runner and certainly not as good as he was," laughs Betterson, "but I admired the way he played. He was bothered by injuries, but always gave 100 per cent."

And regardless of whether the opposition be Bobcats or Buckeyes, that's something Boom Boom Betterson also does — he gives 100 per cent. Just watch him today and you'll see that.

Nestled in the rolling foothills of Piedmont North Carolina is Chapel Hill, home of the University of North Carolina.

The School itself is the oldest state university in the nation, first admitting students in 1795 while George Washington was President. However, it was not until after Reconstruction that Carolina began making the rapid progress that has lifted it to the top of southern education.

There are currently 14 schools at Carolina and more than 70 departments and other academic-affiliated divisions and institutes.

Strong in both the humanities and the sciences, the University also has a School of Business Administration of special potency, commensurate with the growing industrial might of the mid-South.

An integral part of the University is the Division of Health Affairs, a six-fold center that includes a four-year medical school, dentistry school, pharmacy school, school for nursing and a public health school. All are located in the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, a teaching center for hundreds of clinics in 100 North Carolina counties.

Among the dozens of institutes and specialized programs affiliated with the division are the Health Services Research Center, the Hand Rehabilitation Center, the Child Development and Mental Retardation Research Institute and the Dental Research Center, each of which is one of only a few centers of its kind in the country.

Carolina is one of the largest and top-ranking universities in the nation. A recent rating of graduate schools by the American Council on Education put 12 UNC graduate departments in the highest category and 12 in the second highest. That made Carolina the leader of all universities, public or private, in the Southeast.

Alan Carter of the ACE describes Carolina as "the leading southern university, a liberal voice in the region."

In annual choices made by southern graduate scholars in the Rockefeller grants, more select graduate study in Chapel Hill than any other place.

The University is continuing to grow as it strives to keep pace with today's changing world. Growth has been especially tremendous in the last 20 years. Those two decades have seen the establishment of the School of Journalism, the School of Business Administration, the Carolina Population Center, the WUNC-TV education television station, the Ackland Art Center and a new computer system.

In that same time buildings have multiplied; student enrollment has reached nearly 20,000; the faculty has grown to over 1,200; new courses have been added to the curriculum and old ones revised; adult education courses have expanded; and scholarship and development programs have grown.

Ray too Good to Sit on Bench

Having a brother who is the acknowledged best college football player in America is tough enough. But when you both play the same position, that's downright unfair.

That's the predicament that Ray Griffin found himself in last January. Brother Archie, a tailback without peer, had been accorded college football's most prestigious honor at the close of the 1974 season, the Heisman Trophy. And Arch was just a junior.

Ray, a pretty good tailback in his own right, was coming off a more than moderately successful freshman year in which he had rushed for 223 yards on 43 carries, scored three touchdowns and averaged 5.1 yards per carry as a back-up to his older brother. He had shown flashes of brilliance, but flashes aren't enough sometimes and it was obvious that his role in 1975 would continue to be that of a reserve.

The dilemma was resolved following the Rose Bowl when Ray approached Coach Woody Hayes and asked for a tryout with the defense. Woody was hesitant at first. Ray, he knew, had the potential to become a great running back. But he also knew that the defense had lost eight regulars to graduation and an athlete of Ray's obvious talent would be of great help to defense coordinator George Hill.

"Ray was too good an athlete to have sitting on the bench," noted Hayes. "We (the coaching staff) finally decided he could be of most help to the team if he went to defense."

Ray Griffin gets some instructions from the Coaches in the press box during last week's Penn State Game.

Ray began making the transition during spring practice. After a brief stay at the open-side halfback spot, he found a home at safety.

"You could see right away that he was going to be a player," assessed Dick Walker, OSU's defensive backfield coach. "He had speed, was a tremendous hitter and had great hands. He was a natural."

The one thing Ray Griffin didn't have was experience. And that was a problem, since the Buckeyes opened with four straight major league opponents, starting with the much discussed Sept. 13 clash at Michigan State.

"I knew I had to be ready for the Michigan State game because it was so important," Ray recalled. "I didn't want to let the team down. That game is the one thing that I kept thinking about in the spring, then during the summer when I was working out and finally this fall. It motivated me to give it everything I had."

Whatever the motivation, Ray didn't let anyone down against the Spartans. He made six tackles in the Buckeyes 21-0 victory, including a couple of bone-jarring stops that made the Spartans think twice about coming his way.

He followed that initial effort up with nine tackles in last week's 17-9 win over Penn State and now leads the defensive backs in tackles with 16.

"I'm beginning to feel comfortable now," he says. "I was a little nervous at first, afraid of making the big mistake. But I am starting to feel more at home."

He added, "Everyone thought this defense was going to be the team's weak point, but we have a bunch of guys who are willing to work hard to excel and I think we are just going to get better as the year goes on. It's a close group and I am glad to be a part of it."

Michael J. Murray, Jr., C.L.U.
Agency Manager

Building an organization is much like building a football team. You secure key personnel and use good coaching and concentrate on the fundamentals of the game, progress will appear and championship form can be attained.

Here in our agency, we have key personnel who have done a great job of recruiting quality men and women. Pictured on this page are some of the key personnel who do an excellent job of coaching and guiding our agents into becoming successful, established career life underwriters. This is a career lifetime opportunity. Qualified individuals may be promoted to management. If you are a person who has a competitive background, has been serious about success and truly desires a career—not a job—why not call Mike Murray, C.L.U. or one of the other agency coaches of the Murray Agency.

In the fall of 1915, William A. Dougherty, then a Student Manager of the football team, wrote the words and music to "Across the Field." In 1975 we celebrate sixty years of hearing this stirring song performed at every Ohio State football game. Mr. Dougherty is the honored guest of the Marching Band today and will play his composition on the piano during the halftime show.

Our Game Plan Is No Secret.

If industrial machinery plays an important part in your game plan, then you probably know all about transmission equipment, pumps and compressors supported by a first-rate team of industrial sales engineers.

In addition to a complete inventory of new equipment, our parts and repair service departments are always on call to see that a minor equipment breakdown doesn't become a plant shutdown.

And with five locations throughout Ohio and West Virginia, we're always close by when you need help.

So when your game plan calls for power transmission equipment, pumps, compressors and bearings, remember the Ohio Transmission Corporation. We're geared to help you meet tomorrow's needs today.

Covered from head to toe in sterile clothing, veterinary students perform a "de-horning" in the new Veterinary Hospital.

New Veterinary Hospital Treats 20,000 a Year

The size of four football fields, it's a maze of activity. Faculty and students, clad in what look like pale blue pajamas and shower caps, hover over surgical patients.

Yelping pups, newborn kittens and ailing horses are led gently through spotless corridors to physical therapy and radiology.

Away from it all, a professor quietly reviews procedure with a seminar group.

The scene is Ohio State's modern, busy Veterinary Hospital. It is a primary reason the College of Veterinary Medicine is fourth in the nation in academic excellence. The high ranking comes from those who know best — deans of professional schools across the country. The ratings were published in the December 1974 issue of "Change" magazine.

"A hospital of this kind enhances veterinary education immeasurably," said C. Roger Smith, veterinary medicine dean at OSU. "It combines the two living textbooks you can't find in any library — the interaction of fellow students and faculty and experience with the animal patients themselves."

The hospital, located at 1935 Coffey Rd., treats 20,000 patients a year. The two-year-old, $9 million structure features modern equipment for clinical instruction — 90 box stalls for large animals, 21 small animal wards, 10 operating rooms — and specially equipped areas for treatment in ophthalmology, dermatology, dentistry, physical therapy and diagnosis of heart and brain disorders.

The hospital also has 12 research modules, a 280-seat auditorium, four seminar rooms and a self-learning laboratory with slides, tapes, 8-mm movies and closed circuit television.

Dean Smith cited other reasons for Ohio State's reputation in veterinary medicine:

- Solid financial support, both public and private, built from a 90-year tradition of excellence.
- Location on a campus with unusual strength and facilities in health sciences.
- Impetus to the college from Ohio's massive agricultural industry.
- Faculty and students who encourage both excellence and flexibility.

A veterinary facility in Marysville, along with an ambulatory clinic in Columbus, sends students to homes and farms for diagnosis and treatment in a patient's natural environment. In 1974, a veterinary extension program was started to allow faculty members from the Department of Veterinary Preventive Medicine and the Cooperative Extension Service to work with students, livestock producers, local veterinarians and county agricultural agents in solving problems of animal husbandry.

Ohio State has graduated more veterinarians than any school in North America. Enrollment in the college is up 59 per cent since 1968, reaching 510 this autumn.

Unfortunately, eight applicants for admission must be turned away for every student admitted, a forced selectivity which is experienced by all 19 veterinary schools in the country.

"It is obvious that with only 30,000 veterinarians in the United States and a shortage of 8400, veterinary medicine has much to do," Dean Smith said. "The new hospital, with facilities for the care of birds, snakes and mammals from mice to elephants, is as fine as there exists in America."

CHRIS WARD, sophomore from Dayton. Starts at left offensive tackle for the Buckeyes after backing-up All-America Kurt Schumacher in 1974. A rugged 6-4, 275 pounder with unlimited potential. Won nine high school letters at Dayton Patterson where he was an all-Ohio Selection. Also won a letter in track last year with the Buckeyes.

RICK APPLEGATE, junior from Cincinnati. One of the keys to the Buckeyes' offensive line in 1975. Played guard and tackle last year, but moved to center in spring practice to help offset the loss of three-year regular Steve Myers. Has made the adjustment quickly and gives every indication of becoming a top front-line player. Was an outstanding prep wrestler at Deer Park, reaching the finals of the state tournament as a senior.

SCOTT DANNELLEY, senior from Williamsport, Pa. Starting his second year as a regular and a good bet for all-Big Ten honors this year. Started all 12 games at right tackle last year and was one of the Buckeyes' most consistent performers. Missed the 1972 season with a knee injury but was granted an additional year of eligibility. An all-state high school player who captained his football and track teams. His hobbies are hunting and fishing.

BILL LUKENS, junior from Cincinnati. Won the starting right guard spot this fall despite a strong challenge by fellow junior Ron Ayers. Played only sparingly last year, but has a good knowledge of blocking techniques and learns quickly. His high school coach at St. Xavier was former Big Ten official Tom Ballaban. An honor student who plans to enter veterinary medicine. Was Lineman of the Week against Michigan State.

Meet the Buckeyes

TED SMITH, senior from Gibsonburg. Played linebacker as a sophomore, but shifted to guard last year and started all 12 games on the left side. Gives the Buckeyes size, speed and strength and is an excellent down-field blocker. Should be one of the top guards in the conference this season. Captained his high school football and basketball teams. Played fullback and linebacker at Gibsonburg.

OHIO STATE SONGS

ACROSS THE FIELD

Fight that team across the field,
Show them Ohio's here,
Set the earth reverberating with a mighty cheer
Rah! Rah! Rah!
Hit them hard and see how they fall;
Never let that team get the ball,
Hail! Hail! the gang's all here,
So let's win that old conference now.

CARMEN OHIO

Oh! Come let's sing Ohio's praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer's heat or Winter's cold,
The seasons pass, the years will roll;
Time and change will surely show
How firm thy friendship O-hi-o.

BUCKEYE BATTLE CRY

In old Ohio there's a team,
That's known thru-out the land;
Eleven warriors, brave and bold,
Whose fame will ever stand,
And when the ball goes over,
Our cheers will reach the sky,
Ohio Field will hear again

The Buckeye Battle Cry —

Drive! Drive on down the field,
Men of the scarlet and gray;
Don't let them thru that line,
We have to win this game today,
Come on, Ohio!
Smash thru to victory
We cheer you as we go:
Our honor defend
So we'll fight to the end for O Hi o.

SPECIAL OFFER TO FOOTBALL FANS!!

If Your Sweetheart Reminds You of SUSAN WHEELER
Tell Her So With a Copy of the Exciting, New Novel

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SLAY A DRAGON!

That Romantic Comedy of College Football
by JOHN and MARJORIE STUART

ILLUSTRATED IN COLOR by MARJORIE STUART

FOOTBALL FANS!

If you remember when college meant football games, sorority girls, fraternity pranks and banana splits, or if you wish you did, then you won't want to miss this romantic comedy (based largely on true experiences).

Follow the nostalgic adventures of Susan Wheeler and Andy MacLeod as their romance becomes a legend of the campus. Those were the days when the coach was furious because the back tackled too hard! When the two most beautiful girls in the whole college schemed to LOSE a beauty contest! The Quarterback impressed his sweetheart by giving her a tall stack of thick reference books instead of flowers. A perfectly sane, normal freshman co-ed was scared to death that the upperclassmen would NOT paddle her?

The big scandal was pretty innocent by today's standards. Innocent, but a little confusing. A cute blonde shocked everyone when she ran across campus in her nightie and kissed the football hero. Boy did that make him mad! He swore she'd have to kiss him again — with her clothes on. But we are telling you too much. Buy the book and find out how it all happened.

Football Guide—85 Years of College Football

What's older than the NCAA, has more years of football experience than Bear Bryant and Woody Hayes combined, and heralds the coming of the college football season for the 85th time in 1975?

If you answered "the Official Collegiate Football Guide," then you're probably already familiar with the pocket-sized book of football goodies which is published annually by the NCAA Publishing Service.

The 1975 edition, now available, represents must reading for the serious fan of the college grid scene.

The Football Guide tradition dates back to the Gay '90s, when the Harvards, Yales and Princetons dominated the football world and names like Pudge Heffelfinger, Frank Hinkley and Walter Camp were as familiar to fans of that era as Archie Griffin, Joe Washington and Joe Paterno are to today's disciples of the game.

The whole thing started with Walter Camp, the "father of American football."

Teen-age Game

On December 5, 1883, the rules committee of that year gave Camp authorization "to copyright and print the foot ball rules." The college game was a mere teen-ager of 14 years.

The opportunistic Camp accepted that commission and in 1891 he expanded his effort by adding review and instructional material and photos of the game's top players and teams to his rules book, and the Football Guide was born.

Camp edited the Football Guide until his death in 1925, and he was succeeded by others famous for their contributions to college football over the years: E. K. Hall, Walter R. Okeason, Lt. Col. W. J. Bingham, E. C. "Dutch" Krieger and A. R. Hutchens, until 1950 when the NCAA assumed publication control.

The earliest guides contained an introduction to football for beginners, the all-America team with full-page photos of each team member, a summary of the past season, team records, the rules and advertisements for Spalding athletic equipment.

Spalding was the publisher of the early guides, part of the American Sports Library series.

A peek into the 1896 Guide reveals several pages of letters to Camp from physicians and clergymen, praising the qualities of the game despite its violent attributes.

Obviously the game was already receiving pressure from some places due to its violent nature. It was that widespread violence which nearly cost the game its very life in 1906, when concerned universities and colleges formed the Intercollegiate Athletic Association (later to become the NCAA) and agreed upon rules which revised some of football's most brutal tendencies.

Army-Navy Tradition

Camp, in his review of the 1896 season (in the 1897 Guide) stated that it was not fair to rank two teams, West Point and Annapolis, because the season had produced nothing to indicate one's superiority over the other. He opined that "only a game could decide the better."

Apparently, that made sense to the Army and Navy folk, too, and in 1899 the service academies turned occasional meetings into what became America's most traditional annual college football clash.

The 1900 Guide provided a trip into that day's version of Bartlett's Familiar Quotations to summarize the seasons of the major teams in 1899. Heading the review of Harvard's unbeaten and unscored-upon eleven were the words: "It is not in mortals to command success; But we'll do more, Sepronius—we'll deserve it."

We are two travelers, Roger and I" introduced the review of two of football's earliest intersectional road games, those of Wisconsin to Yale and Michigan to Pennsylvania. And when Williams finally defeated Dartmouth after several years of trying Camp said of Williams: "Beware the fury of a patient man."

The Football Guide of the early 1900s sold for 10 cents, and it was possible to subscribe to 12 such publications, issued monthly in the Spalding series for $1.20 per year.

Today's cover price of $2.00 reflects the changing times and costs of the last 70 years.

By contrast to its early ancestors, the 1975 Guide, just like the game of football itself, is much more "sophisticated."

This year's edition doesn't have a single line of poetry, but it does contain previews of the major teams in every part of the country, written by members of the Football Writers' Association of America.

In addition, Division II and III conference preview articles, standings, action photos, a review of 1974's post-season bowl action, statistical reviews, the consensus all-America team and the schedules for all 133 major football-playing schools and 298 other NCAA member institutions are included in the 208 pages of the Guide.

The football rules are no longer a part of the Football Guide, but are published as a separate title, for the convenience of football officials.

"Read-Easy Rules"

The Guide contains the "read-easy" rules, an unofficial version of the rules written in understandable terms.

The mere existence of this kind of rules version suggests the complexity of today's game when compared to the game Camp knew when he brought the Football Guide into being last century.

A top returning player is featured annually on the cover of the Guide, and this year's edition pictures Pat Thomas, Texas A&M's all-America defensive back.

A newsstand version of the Football Guide features Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin on its cover.

The Guide is one of 17 annual publications of the NCAA Publishing Service, and may be obtained by sending $2.00 to P.O. Box 1906, Shawnee Mission, Kansas 66222.

Once introduced to the Football Guide, no fan's football season is complete without it. We hope Walter Camp would still agree.
